

Disclaimer/Release of Liability Statement

In addition to her responsibilities as an employee of Covenant Theological Seminary, Sabrina Hickel provides psychotherapy services outside of her capacity as an employee of Covenant Theological Seminary. When operating in the capacity of a counselor, Sabrina Hickel is not working as an employee or agent of Covenant Theological Seminary. Rather, Covenant Theological Seminary is merely providing space for her counseling and psychotherapy services as a matter of convenience, without any compensation.

This is a legally binding release made by the undersigned to Covenant Theological Seminary for access to psychotherapy with Sabrina Hickel. Covenant Theological Seminary is not a regulatory agency. It makes no endorsement or recommendation as to the quality or competency of the psychotherapist named above. It is the client's responsibility to assess the quality and competency of available counselors and choose the counselor that best meets their or their family's needs.

By signing below, I agree that, in consideration for any psychotherapy services provided to me, I will assume and take on myself all of the risks and responsibilities in any way associated with my assessment of the quality and competency of the counselors I choose. Further, I release Covenant Theological Seminary (and its board of directors, offices, employees and agents) from any and all liability, claims or actions that may arise from injury or harm to myself, my dependent(s) or damage to my property, in connection with the psychotherapy services provided to me. I recognize that this release means I am giving up the right to sue Covenant Theological Seminary, its board of directors, offices, employees or agents for injuries, damage or losses I or my dependent(s) may incur through provision of psychotherapy services to me or my family. I also understand this release binds my heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, as well as myself and my dependent(s).
